Connecting with Creative Potential

Looking forward to the coming day is not a given for many people, especially the disabled, the elderly, and other at-risk groups.

Out of the Ashes focuses on working with people of all abilities in creating an excitement for life through creative expression.

The styles of music are as diverse as the performers. Excitement is a gift that comes from a positive attitude and attitude is shaped through direct experience. There is an equally imperative and profoundly effective component to the equation of attitude.....Consistency. The importance of consistency cannot be overstated, it makes the difference between an experience being novel or “neat” and having it change a life.

Out of the Ashes changes lives.

It is the mission of Out of the Ashes to connect hearts and souls to the eternal magic of music and to increase the awareness of positive possibilities in everyday life experience.

“It’s WAY more than music”...

Through the years, we have discovered several positive outcomes as a direct result of consistent experience with music. Self-determination, social skills, self-esteem, confidence and self-expression all have been a part of the outcomes related to Out of the Ashes. This success cannot only be measured through individual growth, but also through community outreach as it bridges a gap between human beings and their differences.

“As soon as the music starts, the lights go on inside so many of the people there. It is something you really have to see to understand.....” Margaret McClure, mother of one of the Out of the Ashes participants.

Qualifications

Jon Dalgarn has been a professional musician for over twenty-five years performing as a singer/songwriter for a number of independent artists and labels.

Voices that regularly remain mute sing and some musicians are set free of their inhibitions.

Jon has worked with people with disabilities for ten years, beginning residentially with Village Community Services in Arlington, WA, and later managed a sheltered workshop and a mobile crew enclave.

The combination of the two experiences, music and human services, has created a wonderful ability to unite his love for live performance and his passion for adding quality to the lives of the people he currently serves.

An intuitive and compassionate professional, Jon brings his expertise in the field of music and his knowledge of the world of disabilities to a program that has yielded extremely positive dividends to people of all abilities who participate in Out of the Ashes.

Rhythms coax movement from timid feet, hands, souls.....
